Cases and Engagements

Valuation, Mexico. Agrotech Entity, 2024

EconOne was engaged to conduct a comprehensive valuation of a Mexican Agrotech company ahead of its investor roadshow, delivering an in-depth economic, financial, and tax analysis to reinforce the company's market positioning and highlight its growth potential. The company specializes in pioneering IT solutions for agriculture, leveraging advanced analytics and satellite imagery to optimize farming practices while promoting sustainability and operational efficiency. Its cutting-edge farm management software provides real-time monitoring of activities, effectively reducing reliance on toxic fertilizers and lowering carbon footprints.

The intellectual property valuation was conducted using a Discounted Cash Flow (DCF) methodology in line with IVSC 2017 guidelines, complemented by market, income, and cost approaches for a comprehensive analysis. Our research underscored the significant value derived from the company's Sustainability and ESG-driven innovations, which have enhanced environmental impact reduction, fostered resilient farming practices, and strengthened compliance. These factors not only elevated the company's valuation but also justified a higher market-based price-to-book (P/B) multiple, showcasing its distinct position within the Agrotech sector and its robust growth potential.
